Leaders Agree to Extend NRA Without Code Enforcement

POWER TAKEN FROM F. D. R. UNDER PLAN

Increase for Federal Inheritance Tax Is Also Proposed

WASHINGTON, Thursday, June 6. (AP)—A resolution extending a skeleton NRA organization until April 1, 1936, but repealing all presidential power to prescribe, approve, or enforce codes of fair competition, was agreed to today by house, senate and administration leaders.

Earlier, a study of the possibility of preserving labor standards through interstate compacts, bolstered by federal cooperation, was initiated by President Roosevelt.

May Ask Tax Increase Congressional leaders also said President Roosevelt may send a message soon advocating increased inheritance taxes to raise revenue and to replace income.

The resolution agreed to, had yet to obtain approval by the full house ways and means committee, but democratic leaders expressed the hope that would be obtained before nightfall and the "stop-gap" resolution brought up in the house tomorrow.

The schedule, as the ways and means committee met to act this afternoon, was to accept without change the first section of the senate resolution extending the NRA organization until April 1, 1936.

LIBRARY PASSES IN REVIEW

Ball President Since 1902

Events in the most active period of the Santa Ana library's history passed in review today, recalled by the news that Dr. C. D. Ball, a member of the institution's board of directors for 39 years, has decided to tender his resignation. Dr. Ball has been president of the board since 1902.

The prediction that his son, Dr. John Ball, will be elected to membership on the board, brought into the limelight the fact that physicians have played an important part in the city's library development.

Crash of Plane At Costa Mesa Leads to Wreck

The crash of the Los Angeles Airways passenger plane at Costa Mesa yesterday had an aftermath on land at 4:20 a. m. today when the wreckage of the big ship was being towed through Huntington Beach. An automobile collision occurred directly behind the damaged plane, injuring Miss Neva Colvin and Miss Beulah Hunter, both of Lomita.

The car in which they were riding collided with the rear of a machine operated by Harry Forsythe, Burbank. Mr. Forsythe, a mechanic for the Los Angeles Airways, was following the plane when the accident occurred. His car caught fire and was destroyed, but he was uninjured.

Miss Colvin sustained concussion of the brain, scalp wounds and minor bruises, and Miss Hunter cuts and bruises. Both were taken to St. Joseph's hospital.

Sabotage Intimated by Airways Executive in Costa Mesa Wreck

With officials intimating that sabotage may have been responsible for the crash yesterday of the tri-motored Los Angeles Airways plane at Costa Mesa, two investigators into the accident in which three passengers escaped death when the ship struck a barn and house, were under way in Los Angeles today.

The damaged ship was hauled into Los Angeles last night on orders of E. R. Scroggie, inspector for the department of commerce, and George S. Armitage, operations director for the Los Angeles Airways. This morning (Please turn to Page 2, Column 2)

QUAKE IS FELT HERE TODAY

Santa Ana residents were awakened at 3 a. m. today by a sharp but brief earthquake, although some sleepers who had become callous as result of their experience after the March, 1933, temblor, failed to notice the disturbance.

The quake lasted several seconds, with a sharp twist featuring it near the end. The movement was in a general north and south direction.

NEW RANSOM BILL FOUND IN SPOKANE

Federal Men Quiet on Removal of Man from Hotel in Seattle

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

TACOMA, Thursday, June 6.—The discovery of a $20 ransom bill in the Spokane postoffice shared manhunt clue importance today with the 9-year-old George Weyerhaeuser's active participation in the search and the removal of a man from a Seattle hotel by two reputed federal agents.

The "G men" here were silent on all three reports.

Discovery of one of the 20,000 bills which made up George's $200,000 ransom was revealed at Spokane last night.

The whereabouts of the man taken in Seattle was not determined, although the hotel management said today, hours after his disappearance, that he had not returned.

A Seattle newspaper reporter and photographer said they had called at the hotel but were ordered to leave by two men they recognized as federal agents from Tacoma and who displayed federal badges.

They said the reputed agents entered a room, remained about an hour and then left the hotel by a side exit, accompanied by the man. (Continued on Page 2, Column 8)

'GIN MARRIAGE' LAW NEAR END

SACRAMENTO, Thursday, June 6. (AP)—Over-the-counter service in marriage licenses apparently was riding to fulfillment in the California legislature today.

Death to the state's famous "gin-marriage" law, which requires a matrimonially inclined couple to wait five days before a license can be obtained, seemed inevitable as by an 8-4 vote, the judiciary committee sent to the senate last night the Desmond bill to repeal the law, thus making it possible for couples to obtain licenses on the day they make application.

SECURITY BILL IS FURTHERED

SACRAMENTO, Thursday, June 6. (AP)—The first defensive step of the legislature toward enactment of social legislation was recorded today in the assembly.

By a vote of 78 to 0, the lower house passed the Hornblower bill, which would amend the present state old age security act by increasing the maximum benefits to $35 a month, setting the minimum at $25, and reducing the age limit from 70 to 65 years. Provisions that a person must have resided in the state 15 years was not disturbed.

Where Santa Anans Will View Plants

Scores of Santa Ana residents will gather Saturday at Rancho Santa Ana Botanic Gardens in Santa Ana canyon, the administration building of which is shown here. On the first floor are the offices and laboratories connected with the 200-acre plant sanctuary, while the upper floor is the summer home of Mrs. Susanna Bixby Bryant, whose generosity made possible the preservation of native plants and flowers in the gardens. Cards for admission to the gardens on Saturday, Santa Ana day, may be obtained at the chamber of commerce. Maps showing how to reach the sanctuary also will be provided there.

AD VALOREM TAX URGED

Legislative Leaders Use New Strategy in Budget Fight

SACRAMENTO, Thursday, June 6. (AP)—Weary administration leaders, forced to a showdown on a $112,800,000 new revenue program for balancing of the $376,000,000 state budget for 1935-37, hurried new strategy today at enemies of their tax plans.

Faced with loss of a major item in the revenue set-up, the Duval bill to transfer automobile property taxes from counties and cities to the state, they engineered through the joint legislative tax steering committee a vote recommending a state ad valorem tax.

The recommendation was sent out with the expectation that opponents would be divided. (Please turn to Page 2, Col. 6)

Byng's Death Saddens Vets

Members of the Orange county post of the Canadian Legion were saddened today when word was received that General Sir Julian Byng, "hero of Cambrai and Vimy Ridge," had died. Many of the veterans had served under General Byng when he commanded the Canadian corps during the World war.

They recalled that two of the most brilliant attacks of the World war were planned and led by their former commander who, because of his achievements, later became commander of the Third British army, succeeding General Allenby. They also recalled that through his victories he erased a stain on the Byng name which (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

A general drop of two and one-half cents on retail prices of first grade gasoline, and one and one-half cents on lower grades was in effect in Santa Ana service stations today, following announcements of price slashing in Los Angeles.

The change brought the prevailing prices down to 17½ cents, 15½ and 14½ cents for the three grades of fuel. In some instances a price of 13½ cents is in effect for the lowest grade gas.

Tank wagon prices also dropped, maintaining their general level of two cents beneath the retail prices. In one or two instances tank wagon prices were as low as 10½ cents.

STATE SUES TO CONDEMN LAND

Preparatory to awarding contracts for extension of Manchester avenue from Lincoln avenue in Anaheim to Miraflores, the state of California, through the department of public works, today filed suit in eminent domain for condemnation of a 100-foot strip along the Southern Pacific Railway company's right-of-way.

Henry D. Polhemus, the Southern Pacific Railway, Central Hanover National Bank and Trust company, Chase National bank of New York, and more than 100 other persons and firms were named defendants.

It is understood that approximately 26 acres are involved in the suit, and that the state has estimated $17,602 as a fair amount to pay for the condemned property.

DEATH TAKES GEN. BYNG

Vimy Ridge Leader Is Taken Following an Operation Today

THORPELSOKEN, Essex, Eng., Thursday, June 6. (AP)—Viscount Byng of Vimy, war leader and peace-time reorganizer of London's metropolitan police, died at his home in Thorpe Hall at 2 a. m. today after an operation. He was 72 years old.

The death of the "hero of Vimy Ridge," whose long career also included a term as governor general of Canada, left Lord Allenby as the only surviving outstanding leader of the British troops in the World war.

Lord Byng has spent the last few years in search of health, visiting Canada and the United States.

State Control of Milk Production Comes to An End This Week

Two Orange county industries, which last year brought in an income of nearly $4,000,000, were affected today by a ruling of Superior Judge Emmet H. The decision was given in two actions brought by the lemon growers and milk producers in Southern California.

According to A. J. McFadden, chairman of the state prorate board, the decision will not affect proratees on Valencia oranges and walnuts. The Los Angeles decision affected the state prorate act, while it is the national prorate act under which oranges and walnuts are marketed. The lemon prorate has not been operative, he said.

Judge Wilson held that the state (Please turn to Page 2, Column 7)

With entry lists completed for the parade, which starts at 7:30 o'clock tonight, and 24 competitors awaiting the starter's gun in the orange packing contest, Fullerton was prepared to open its three-day Valencia Orange festival, which starts with the parade this evening.

Several Orange county bands will be seen in the parade, and city and county officials have announced their intention of riding in decorated cars. LeRoy Lyon, third district supervisor, has been named marshal and will lead the entries over a flood-lighted course through the business district.

Interest in the festival tomorrow centers around the free garden party which will be given for all women of the county in the afternoon and the Valencia ball and choosing of "Queen Valencia" in the high school gymnasium at 8 p. m. Seven high school girls from Anaheim, Fullerton, La Habra, Placentia, Yorba Linda, Buena Park and Brea have been chosen by their communities as candidates for the honor.

MAN IN CAR ASSAILANT, SHE SAYS

Officers Puzzled Over Attack; Knife Found Near Scene Today

Chief of Police Tom Murphine of San Clemente told The Journal today that he had found a knife in the vicinity of the spot where Miss McCann said she was stabbed. It is an ordinary paring knife and Chief Murphine said it would be turned over to Sheriff Logan Jackson for finger-printing.

Miss Angela McCann, young San Clemente and San Juan Capistrano newspaper correspondent, is recovering today from wounds she reported having received last night when she was stabbed over the heart by an unknown attacker in San Clemente.

The affair followed the receipt of a letter Miss McCann said she received, warning her to discontinue reporting news pertaining to the school controversy in San Juan Capistrano. Sheriff's officers, puzzled over the case are making diligent effort today to solve the mystery.

Miss McCann, who lives in San Clemente, told officers she was attacked while walking through the business section of the town. She said she was on her way to the Aquarium cafe where the Orange County Peace Officers' association was holding its monthly meeting.

Accosted By Man Miss McCann told officers she was walking along the west side of the highway, when a sedan drove up to the curb and a man's voice inquired: "Aren't you the girl from the Register?" Miss McCann, thinking it might be some one she knew, walked to the side of the car.

"What were you doing in Santa Ana all day?" the voice inquired.

Miss McCann had reached the door of the car. Suddenly, she said, the driver of the car—some one unknown to her—made a lunge at her and she experienced a sharp pain in the left side, slightly above the heart. She realized she had been stabbed.

The car turned in the middle of the highway and sped off in the night. Not, however, before the same voice shouted a warning that others in the community (he named them) "would be next."

As the car circled in the street, Miss McCann read a portion of the license number. She could not see all the figures.

Miss McCann told officers that she believed at first that the (Please turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

RICH MIDWEST FARM LANDS INUNDATED AS RIVERS OVERFLOW

80,000 ACRES ARE UNDER WATER IN KANSAS

KANSAS CITY, Thursday, June 6. (AP)—The foaming flood waters of the Kaw and Missouri rivers spread out over thousands of acres of fertile farm land today after breaking through dikes and levees.

The crest of the flood in the Kaw river was about 40 miles west of here today, while the main force of the Missouri was being exerted against protective barriers from Hermann to St. Charles, Mo.

Carrying flood waters from Colorado, Nebraska and Kansas, the Kaw broke through a levee north of Lawrence, Kan., last night, sent a torrent onto hundreds of rich bottom land.

The break ended the efforts of 600 men to save the barrier. More than 80,000 acres of land were reported under water east of Hermann, Mo., as the "Big Muddy" defeated the efforts of workers to hold it within levees.

had existed for 160 years when Admiral John Byng, one of his forefathers, was shot by a firing squad on the deck of the British warship Monarch for alleged hesitation in attacking the French fleet at Minorca.

Known as "Bingo Byng," the one-time commander of the Canadian forces was regarded as one of the strictest disciplinarians in the British army. At the same time, they say, he was one of the best loved commanders.

Taking command of the Canadian troops in May, 1916, he won a series of victories leading up to the battle of the Somme where his troops, through a series of the most daringly executed maneuvers of the entire war, captured Vimy Ridge on April 7, 1917.

His next bold step, and one that veterans of the war say marked him as a brilliant and daring tactician, was the tank attack on Cambrai which routed the Germans. Planned by General Byng and prepared in utmost secrecy the movement, for the first time, brought Canadian tanks into action without artillery support. The attack was launched on November 20, 1917, and resulted in the fall of Cambrai the same day.

shows and dramatic productions helped keep the library going. As a result of his solicitation, many new books were donated to the library in the emergency and $50 in cash was received, according to a history of the institution, written by Verna Ramsey of the library staff.

Beginning in the '90s, the library was a center of civic life, and Dr. Ball was one of the most active members of the Monday club, which met regularly in the library for discussion of timely subjects. He served as president of the organization. This club was the forerunner of the modern service club. The late Fred Rafferty and Dr. E. M. Nealley of the junior college were other leading members of the club.

The library in its infancy apparently waged a hard struggle for existence, for the history by Miss Ramsey recalls that it moved several times, due to changes in business quarters where it was located, and moved wherever the best location was offered without cost.

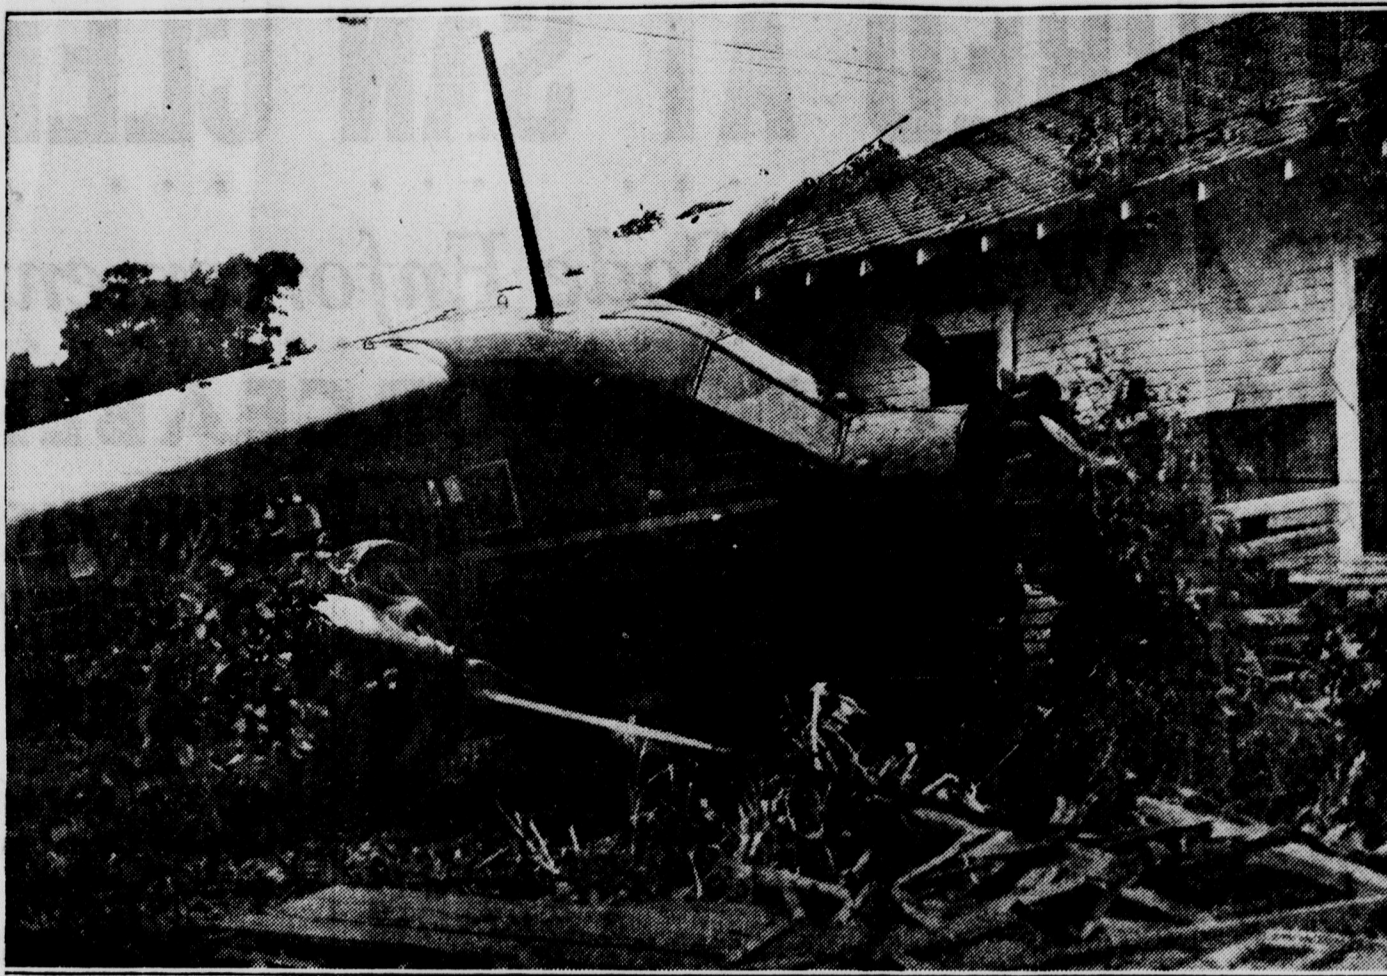

But the pioneer spirit kept it alive by one means or another, such as the entertainment given early in the summer of 1892, with the assistance of Mrs. J. S. Rice of Tustin. At that time Madame Modjeska, famous actress whose home still stands in Modjeska canyon, was on the program.

Spurgeon Donated Lot
The pioneer spirit was emphasized when the present building was erected. It was placed on a lot donated by the late W. H. Spurgeon, founder of the city, and built through financial assistance from Andrew Carnegie, famous benefactor of libraries.

Dr. Ball was president of the library board at the time. At the completion of the structure, only the main floor was occupied, but during the time Dr. Ball has served on the board, the library has become crowded with books and patrons. Branches have been established in several schools by Miss Jeannette E. McFadden, head librarian.

During the depression years it served as a great boon to many persons without jobs, who flocked there for information, cultural advancement or vocational background.

What Happened When Plane Smashed Into House

Here is what happened to the Joe Volck home when a Los Angeles Airways plane crashed into it at Costa Mesa yesterday afternoon. The plane, a tri-motored Stinson, crashed when motors failed as it flew over Costa Mesa en route from Los Angeles to San Diego. One of the four occupants was slightly injured. The picture was made by Milan Miller for The Journal.

PASSENGER INJURED IN PLANE ACCIDENT RECOUNTS STORY

Paul Patterson, law partner of Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, in the legal firm of Baker, Hostetler, Sidlo and Patterson of Cleveland, and a passenger in the Los Angeles Airways plane that crashed at Costa Mesa shortly after noon yesterday, gave a reporter for The Journal an exclusive story of the crash and his sensations as the ship struck the ground.

Mr. Patterson was the only passenger in the ship to receive an injury. He received a scalp wound when the ship struck and hurled him across the cabin.

"I was a little worried from the time the plane left Mines Field in Los Angeles," Mr. Patterson said. "It seemed to me that the pilot was worried, too. Shortly after the take-off I changed my seat from the front of the cabin to the rear and fastened my safety belt as tight as possible.

Sitting Up Front
"When we took off from the field I was sitting well up in front of the ship, and I noticed that the pilot kept looking out of the ship, first at his right-hand motor and then at the one on the left. It seemed to me that the motors were not hitting as they should. "I felt that there was something wrong all the time, and I know that the pilot was worried, too. All the way down from Los Angeles to the place we crashed he the department of commerce investigation was started by Mr. Scroggie.

Pilot Is Praised
Both investigations will be along the same lines it was indicated by Mr. Scroggie. He said that the government probe would be to determine the cause of the crash which followed the sudden stopping of two of the three motors on the huge cabin plane. Mr. Armitage said that immediately after the government probe his company will launch an investigation with experts examining every part of the motors.

Contacted this morning Mr. Armitage praised Pilot Ross W. Kirlin, who was in charge of the ship when it crashed while attempting a forced landing. Mr. Kirlin has had 10 years experience as a commercial pilot.

"It is due to the skill and quick thinking of Pilot Kirlin that all the passengers in the ship and himself were not killed, Mr. Armitage said. "When both motors quit on him he did the best he could in landing the plane and it was due to his skill that the only injury received by passengers was a scalp wound sustained by Paul Patterson."

Tampering Charged
Mr. Armitage also declared that in his opinion someone had tampered with the two outboard motors of the ship.

"It is not a natural thing for two motors to suddenly stop within 30 seconds of each other," he said. "One motor might stop, but there kept looking out at his motors and appeared undecided as to whether or not to continue.

"As we reached the place where the crash happened the plane turned sharply and the motors shut off. I looked out thinking that probably we were going to land at an airport.

"When I saw the field we were circling was just a small one I looked at the pilot and saw that he was frantically working the stick and rudder and then I knew that we were in for it. I sat and braced myself as well as I could and waited to take it.

Landed in Field
"The plane landed in the field all right and then plowed clear across the road. I braced myself as the ship hit the barn and was uninjured. After striking the barn the rear end swung around so violently that my safety belt was torn loose and I was hurled across the cabin. Had I remained in my original seat at the front of the ship I would have been uninjured.

"Immediately after the crash the pilot, his wife and the other woman passenger rushed to me and started to help me out of the ship. I told them that the cut on my head was nothing serious, and asked the pilot what had happened. He replied, 'My motor cut out.' "That is all there was to it, and I feel that I am pretty lucky." After a short rest Mr. Patterson continued his trip to San Diego by motor.

is too much coincidence in both motors stopping."

He said that at present there is no one under suspicion. Sheriff's deputies and others guarded the ship until it was removed last night. Mr. Armitage stated that the guard was requested to prevent removal of any possible evidence of sabotage.

driver of the car was alone, but that she had a feeling that there was a woman in the rear seat of the sedan at the time.

The wound was on the left side of her chest, approximately four inches below her throat. Miss McCann was taken to San Juan Capistrano where she was treated by Dr. Paul Esslinger.

Just prior to the time that the stabbing took place, Miss McCann had been talking to Earl Moore, of the San Clemente police force.

Immediately after being stabbed, she turned and fled, bleeding, toward the center of town, and was picked up by Moore and another officer who were on patrol in the police car.

Miss McCann told officers that she had no idea as to the identity of the attacker, and that she was unable to recognize him at the time.

'Measures' Threatened

The threatening letter was received by Miss McCann nearly two weeks ago. The letter threatened that "measures" would be taken against the girl, because she and her paper had been showing too much attention to school and other affairs in San Juan Capistrano. The letter was typed on plain white paper, barren of any identifying marks, and was turned over to postal authorities for inspection.

At the time the letter was received, Miss McCann was unable to give any reason for the letter. She said that she had only been pursuing her ordinary newspaper business, and so far as she knew, had done nothing to cause the writing of such a letter.

Text of Letter
The letter reads as follows: Miss McCann—"Unless certain contacts being made by you with certain members of the school board and faculty of the high school cease, there will be measures taken that will force your connections in this community to discontinue."

"This matter will not be brought to your attention again. For your own welfare, heed this advice. The Santa Ana Register is paying entirely too much attention to San Juan Capistrano affairs that do not concern them or you. This concerns other matters than the school problems. This is the last time you will be cautioned in such a manner."

"A citizen of San Juan Capistrano."

Miss McCann told officers last night that she could not think of any reason for the letter, or the stabbing incident. She admitted that she had written some stories for her paper regarding the San Juan Capistrano school affairs.

However, Mr. McFadden said that undoubtedly an appeal will be taken to a higher court, so that conditions probably will remain much as before until a final determination of the case, as far as lemons are concerned. Lemons accounted for $2,425,483 of Orange county's agricultural income last year.

Ends This Week

Of more immediate import, it appeared, was the announcement that state control of milk production in the Los Angeles area, including Orange county, will come to an end this week. Orange county dairy products brought an income of $1,405,080 last year.

According to an Associated Press dispatch, Earl Maharg, manager of the prorate zone, said activities of the office will be terminated in view of the action of the state legislature in eliminating milk from the prorate act.

It was feared here that price cutting may become a temptation to some distributors in view of the present circumstances. In Los Angeles some stores are now selling milk at 6 and 7 cents a quart, but the price has remained stabilized in Orange county at 12 cents.

Zone Fixed April 8

The zone was established last April 8 upon a petition of two-thirds of the producers in Orange, Los Angeles, Riverside, Ventura, Kern and San Bernardino counties.

"About half of the producers will have to carry all the surplus load now," Mr. Maharg said, "and with this amounting to 20,000 gallons a day, a break in prices is almost inevitable."

Assistant Farm Advisor W. M. Cory today outlined the milk situation in the light of the new development. He said that because of elimination of milk in the prorate act, the program which was started for stabilization will have to be terminated.

"At present there is no stabilizing enactment affecting milk, either national or state," he said. "The milk marketing agreement is still in effect, but is inoperative because of the injunction against the market administrator upheld in the courts a month ago."

New Group Forming
"Progress has been made in organization of the Federated Milk Producers association, the need for which is imperative because of the absence of any effective legislative action, or agencies in the field."

"There are two possible enactments which may be utilized upon organization of the association, namely, the fair trades practice

MORE ABOUT RANSOM NOTE

They said all three entered an automobile and disappeared. The Spokane ransom bill was received at the money order window Tuesday between 9 a. m. and 1 p. m., by Miss Vernon Beavers, clerk, who said she issued 112 money orders and received 15 $20 bills in that time.

BILL HERE NOT RANSOM CURRENCY

Search for ransom money paid kidnappers for the release of George Weyerhaeuser, Tacoma, Wash., boy, swung to Orange county for a few moments today when a Midway City woman notified the district attorney's office that she believed one of the $5 federal reserve notes paid the kidnappers was in her possession.

Word was received from Mrs. Delia McAllister of Midway City that she was holding a federal reserve note numbered L25219480A. A hurried search of the list of reserve notes used in paying the ransom revealed that the last four numerals did not correspond with notes of the series.

DENY 2ND GOLD CARD ACTION

Rumors that another complaint would be issued against James Arnold, whose arrest in San Juan Capistrano on a speeding charge revealed the widespread issuance of gold "courtesy cards" by E. Raymond Cato, chief of the California Highway patrol, were denied this morning by Deputy District Attorney Preston Turner.

Arnold was sentenced to serve five days in the county jail by Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison, who also seized his "courtesy card" and is retaining it. Arnold, however, obtained his release on a writ of habeas corpus in the court of Presiding Judge James L. Allen, who quoted a recent decision by the court of appeal to the effect that mere speed does not constitute a violation of the motor vehicle act.

bill recently passed by the legislature, and the milk control bill in the California AAA, which is an enabling act to make more effective the national Agricultural Adjustment Administration program in this state."

Producers at present are not strong enough to have a great effect upon milk prices, Mr. Cory pointed out, and thus are vitally interested in perfecting the association. There are 150 milk producers in this county, and last year their income from dairy products was $1,405,080.

LA HABRA'S CHANCE FOR LIBRARY GOOD AS BILL IS APPROVED

MEASURE IS TO OKEH FINANCE DISTRICT

Lot Already Provided For Building Next To City Hall

LA HABRA, Thursday, June 6.—Possibility that La Habra may soon have a new library building was announced here upon receipt yesterday of a telegram from Ted Craig, speaker of the state assembly, which reported that a library bill, which would favor construction here, had passed both houses of the legislature, and is now awaiting the governor's signature.

The bill would allow formation of a library district including incorporated as well as unincorporated areas. Inability to raise sufficient funds in the incorporated area here has held back any building project to date.

A lot has been purchased by the La Habra Kiwanis club for a new library building between the recently completed city hall and the American Legion building. Tentative plans of the library board call for a structure to harmonize with the architectural style of those already erected.

Members of the library board include L. H. Brewer, Mrs. R. E. Launer, A. J. Wilson and Miss Anna Hopper.

Hot or cold water will not destroy the high lustre of Premier Floor enamel.

For a half dollar you can refinish the floor of the average bathroom.

C. E. CONCLAVE IN FULLERTON JUNE 22-25

FULLERTON, Thursday, June 6.—Further indications that the state Christian Endeavor convention here June 22-25 will be the largest gathering of its kind ever held in Orange county were reported at a local committee meeting recently when members said that paid-up registrations already have passed the 4,000 mark.

This total does not include approximately 1,200 which are expected to register from Orange county, committee members pointed out.

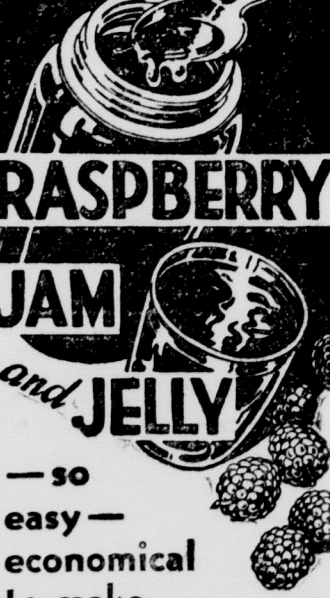

Illustrating the great scope of preparations needed for handling such a large group, the local committee has placed orders for 11 tons of chairs, to supplement the 2,500 now available at Fullerton Union High school, where the convention will be held.

A full-time helper will be hired to assist in registration work and planning for the convention.

ODDS AGAINST DUTRA IN OPEN GOLF PLAY

Column Left!

By FRANK ROGERS

Baseball is no place for experiments, it seems.

Yesterday ended the last of a series of major league try-outs, few of which have turned out successfully.

Jimmy Foxx, the foundation of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, is back on first base—happier than ever and likely to stay there.

Last winter the shifting of Foxx to catcher, the return of Babe Ruth to his old Boston slugging grounds, night baseball in Cincinnati and the question whether the remarkable Dean boys could repeat their 1934 miracle were the current campaign question marks.

And now: Foxx has gone back to first; Babe Ruth is out of baseball; the Deans are just a pair of struggling pitchers, and night baseball is just an experiment. The nocturnal version of the sport, though, is a financial if not an artistic sense.

As one of the more aesthetically inclined scribes put it after the first game in Cincinnati: "The features of the players were not discernible—the human element was lost and the game became synthetic and unnatural."

Connie Mack reports that he took the tools off Foxx because he felt he must do some shuffling to shake the jinx, but it is more or less of an open secret, according to the boys who hang around the parks, that Jimmy asked for the shift.

And just now the largest question in baseball is "What about the Dean boys?" Especially do the curious refer to Dizzy.

That circus-performer-pitcher is strictly "on the spot." He's practically on probation.

After getting off to such a punk start this spring that he is now struggling to keep his percentage above the .500 mark, he is in bad around the dugout. Dizzy's chief offenses have been: (1) Failing to follow Manager Frisch's instructions in the box; (2) Creating a row on the Card bench during Monday's game with the Pirates; and (3) Outspoken and unmannerly criticism of his bosses. And that, every fan knows is enough to make the bosses start looking for another boy.

Frisch is giving the Great One another chance, however. This despite the fact that Dean says quite openly that he wants to be sold to some other team.

"Dean will stick and Dean will pitch," says the iron-willed Frisch. "He can't talk himself into winning ball games for us. Or talk himself out of losing them."

Bites 'N' Bait

SENSATIONAL CATCHES OF YELLOWTAIL

There were 75,000 people at the California-Pacific International exposition on Sunday, but deep sea anglers at the Coronado Islands declare there were more yellowtail off the north point on that day. The "Sea Angler" alone brought in 501 yellowtail over Saturday and Sunday, with a total of 1357 for the week.

The 65-foot live-bait boat "Virginia," which has been operated on the popular day-break cruises to the Coronados, is being relieved this week by the 60-foot "Golden West." The "Virginia" is being overhauled with a new main Diesel engine, and will be back on the run next Sunday.

Excellent deep sea fishing is being enjoyed at the kelp beds off Point Loma. During the past few days the yellowtail catch has exceeded 75 daily, and some real catches of white sea bass have been reported.

FOXX BACK ON 1ST FOR A'S

NEW YORK, Thursday, June 6. (AP)—Another big 1935 baseball experiment apparently has been tossed out of the window.

Jimmy Foxx is back on first base for the Athletics after five weeks of valiant toiling behind the bat.

Le Mon Meets Texas Champion Here Tonight

LIGHT-HEAVY BOYS HEAD PROGRAM

Frankie Lockhart and Tony Gayton Tangle in Ring Rematch

Featuring the appearance of two guest fighters from Texas, and an interesting rematch between Frankie Lockhart of Santa Ana and Tony Gayton of Garden Grove, Promotor Sam Sampson presents his second amateur boxing show at the Orange County Athletic club arena on Highway 101 at 8:30 tonight.

Highly rated as a 175-pounder, "Dandy" Dick Lincoln, the amateur lightweight champion of Texas, collides with Fullerton's Young Le Mon in the four-round main event. Le Mon, who scored a knock-out over "Tiger" Jack Spears of Los Angeles in his first start two weeks ago, has learned some new tricks from his brother Romeo, who recently returned from an eastern tour. The popular headliner feels confident of victory.

Anthony "Cowboy" Alkins, from San Antonio, Texas, and "Tommyhawk" Sanchez of Santa Ana hook up in the four-round semi-windup at 135 pounds. Matchmaker Ben Steffler has promised the winner a bout with Chester Buddy, Golden Glove champion.

The rugged, hard-punching little Indian from El Modena, "Chief" Lopez, will battle Buddy Urias of Pico in the special event pairing two clever 120-pounders.

In another lightweight feature, Gayton will seek revenge over the aggressive Lockhart for that third-round knockout Frankie scored two weeks ago. Other four-round bouts on the card follow:

"Schoolboy" Paul Brown, Santa Ana, vs. Runt Gordy, Pico, 135 pounds.

Doyle Richards, Santa Ana, vs. Al Melendez, Pico, 155 pounds.

Merle Mesa, Anaheim, vs. "Wild Bill" Matthis, San Bernardino, 147 pounds.

Chief Robbins, Anaheim, vs. Larry Ledford, San Bernardino, 145 pounds.

ADMIRALS TO GET NEVA?

Rumors afloat that Louie Neva, the celebrated home-run hitter now pitching for Hollywood of the Federal league, will be in a Long Beach uniform against Santa Ana here tomorrow night were unverified today, but Manager Billy Feister of the Admirals told The Journal that every effort is being made to have Neva in the lineup for their conflict at Anaheim Tuesday.

Long Beach is engaged in a squabble with the Huntington Beach Oilers for the services of the brilliant pitcher, and the Neva case is now before the Huntington Beach commission, which is expected to act within the next few days.

The Admirals base their claim to Neva as the result of a pre-season meeting in which managers of the National league voted him to Long Beach.

"You can tell Santa Ana fans that their one-time battery of Pitcher Earl Morrill and Catcher Enny Wilcox, backed up by a club that outbats both Huntington Beach and Westminster, will be plenty tough over there tomorrow evening," Feister said.

The hustling manager of the tallenders is confident Long Beach's long losing streak soon will be broken, and nothing would please him more than to see it snapped against Santa Ana's league-leaders, unless, of course, Huntington Beach's champions were the victims.

SPAUDLING OFF TO UTAH LOS ANGELES, Thursday, June 6. (AP)—William Spaulding, U. C. L. A. football coach, will leave Saturday, he said today, for Utah, where he will take charge of the summer football coaching school at Logan.

FLAG TOURNEY WON BY MRS. F. REYER AT WILLOWICK

Mrs. Fred Reyer, planting her flag in the 18th cup, won a flag tournament for ladies at the Willowick golf course yesterday.

Mrs. Ben Livesey, who was three inches from the cup on the 18th green, was second to Mrs. Reyer.

Hold Election Election of officers of the Women's South Coast Public Links association will be held in a meeting at the Willowick club a week from Friday, it was announced today.

WESTMINSTER SIGNS LAKE AND MORSE

Acquisition of Lyle Morse, Garden Grove pitcher affiliated with Downey of the Federal Night Ball league, and Reg Lake, youthful infielder who began the season with the Long Beach Admirals, was announced today by Manager George Lackaye of the Westminster Aviators.

The tall skipper of the Flyers, who share third place in the National league with Anaheim and Olive, will employ Morse in a relief role, strengthening his pitching staff headed by "Fuzzy" Errington. Lake, who joined Westminster last night, will be used as a reserve, dividing time in the outfield and at second base.

Lackaye already closed one major deal this week when he acquired Ernie Haas of Pasadena, an experienced third baseman with Rialto and San Bernardino of the American league. Haas, who was secured as a replacement for the injured Al Kohler, showed much promise against Santa Ana Tuesday night.

Clarence "Moose" Hapes, 250-pound Garden Grove boy, is expected back from the University of Mississippi any day now to play for the Aviators. His brother, Raymond, already has returned from the southern state, and is serving as Westminster's regular catcher.

Other mainstays of the Aviator lineup, who will be ready for Anaheim at Westminster tomorrow night, are "Lefty" McClain, 1b; Jim McNabb, 2b; Les Haserot, ss; Floyd Montgomery, lf; Dave Webb, cf; and Ed Daley, rf.

COUNTY TENNIS PLAY BEGINS

Orange Union High school's eighth annual invitational tennis tournament advanced into the second and third rounds today, with two Santa Ana Saints—Muryl Hallman and Carl Aubrey—seen as possible winners in the spirited competition which closes tomorrow.

SULLIVAN TO BAER

A Pictorial History of the Heavyweights

SHARKEY VS. CARNERA—1933

Primo Carnera, the Italian circus giant whose career has been one of the strangest in the history of boxing, attained the heavyweight championship of the world on the night of June 28, 1933, in the Long Island bowl when he knocked out Jack Sharkey in the sixth round.

The knockout was sudden and surprising, in view of the fact that the Ambling Alp had never before—since, for that matter—shown ability to hit sharply enough to keno first-class opponents, despite his huge size and great strength.

Sharkey, a superb boxer always when winning, jolted the Vast Venetian repeatedly through the first five rounds and apparently was winning as he pleased when suddenly he ran into a right uppercut (since considered the only really dangerous punch the Italian had) and went down forthwith, for the full count.

The photograph gives an idea of the surprising nature of the finish, with Carnera gazing at his fallen foe as though he scarcely could believe it himself, as Referee Arthur Donovan starts to send Primo to a neutral corner. The net paid attendance was 31,753, with gross receipts of $198,000, of which Carnera got $16,000 and Sharkey $40,000.

ELKS, 20-30'S BATTLE FOR LEAD AT BOWL TONIGHT

An undisputed king-pin of Santa Ana City league softball will emerge from a momentous round of games at the bowl tonight.

Undeclared, the Elks and 20-30 teams clash in the evening's feature at 7:30 o'clock. Both have earned an enviable record, and each is confident of protecting its perfect standing.

Joe Cornelius, onetime king of National league hurlers, will be on the ridge for the 20-30's. Ellwood Lindley, rangy righthander, will do the flinging for Kenneth Miller's Elks. They were in their respective lineups against the Commercial National bank's fabled 11 while the 20-30's won 10-3, and Lindley struck out nine bankers while the Elks won, 6-5.

Oilers vs. First Nationals The second game between Union Oil and the First National bank should develop into another pitching duel between Lloyd Litchner-walter and Walt Jordan. The outcome of the "night-cap" will determine third place in conference standings.

The statistics:

SANTA ANA CITY LEAGUE

W. L. Pct. Santa Ana Elks 4 0 1.000 Santa Ana 20-30 3 0 1.000 First National Bank 3 1 .750 Union Oil 2 1 .667 M. E. South Seniors 1 3 .250 Commercial Nat'l Bank 1 4 .200 M. E. South Juniors 0 5 .000

Contests Tonight 7:30 o'clock—Santa Ana 20-30 club vs. Santa Ana Elks; 8:30 o'clock—Union Oil vs. First National Bank.

KASAKA REPLACES MORSE IN GARDEN GROVE LINEUP

Loss of Lyle Morse, the right-handed chucker who turned in a one-hit, 3-0 shutout over Placentia, but who now has transferred to Westminster of the National league, has forced Manager Kenneth Dungan of Garden Grove to draft a new pitcher, Yoshio Kasaka, for his Orange County nightball game at Huntington Beach tonight.

Kasaka, No. 1 flinger for Garden Grove Union High school, is the third chucker Dungan has signed this season. Ray Hodgson pitched a couple of games, then went to Irvine. Morse replaced Hodgson.

Irvine Plays Brea Fullerton and Brea, co-leaders of the county league, meet in the first-round feature at Brea next Monday. Placentia plays at Fullerton and Irvine at Brea in other games tonight. San Juan Capistrano opposes Olive at Olive.

The standings:

COUNTY NIGHTBALL LEAGUE

BAER CLOWNS IN TRAINING FOR FIGHT

By EDWARD J. NEIL

Associated Press Sports Writer ASBURY PARK, N. J., Thursday, June 6.—This training camp of Max Baer is the same old merry-go-round, a beautiful bit of seaside landscape with the atmosphere borrowed from the nearest insane asylum.

Baer stands around under the sun in his training ring by the sea, laughing, clowning, letting his sparring partners hit him at will, doing nothing of an offensive nature in rebuttal.

Baer Unruffled His trainers shout at him disparagingly from outside the ropes. The spectators revile him. He goes placidly along his way, a handsome 217-pound figure of an athlete, a little heavy at the waist, but brown as a hickory nut.

Baer's manager, Anell Hoffman, worries more about how young Buddy Baer, Max's giant brother, goes in his workouts than he does about the heavyweight champion's title defense against Jimmy Braddock a week from tonight.

The training ground looks like a motion picture set of a fighter's training ground. Photographers can't take a picture of Max in the ring without their lenses absorbing advertisements on each of the ring posts. Guards chase kids, lacking the 50 cents admission, trying to sneak over the walls.

Gets Cuffed Around Baer looks like the sparring partner, he gets cuffed around so, and all his sparring partners look like heavyweight champions. Anyone who wants to step up and take a shot can hit him with the right hand.

A lot of it is part of the ballyhoo, devised to run Baer down as one means of making Braddock look more formidable. The Jersey Irishman, with a 15-round victory over Art Lasky as his real heavyweight record, is at best a 1 to 5 shot. Something must be done to make prospective customers believe that Jimmy has a chance, thus providing them a reason for attending the festivities.

158 SEEKING HONORS AT OAKMONT

Tricky Layout Adds to Menace as Nation's Best Enter Field

By BOB CAVAGNARO

Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH, Thursday, June 6. With the odds and an all-star field against him, big Olin Dutra of Los Angeles, the leaning tower of golf, risked his fame and glory against 158 challengers today as he started defense of the national open golf championship over the hazardous Oakmont course.

Oakmont's mountainous mounds and 200-odd traps, terrifying despite the elimination of furrows in two dozen of them, in addition to 18 of the trickiest greens on any one layout in the country, promised to turn the 72-hole tournament into a steep climb. At least 30 starters rated a good chance of finishing with the lowest four-round aggregate at sundown on Saturday.

Dutra's Title Menaced Dutra's supremacy, established at Merion in Philadelphia a year ago, is imperiled by the cream of this country's professional golfers, including seven former champions, and, with one exception, the best of the amateur shotmakers. All this plus a foreign challenge from a salaried South African player and six professional mashie wielders from Japan. The multiple Japanese entry is more in the nature of adding an international flavor to the 39th tourney than a threat for the title, but Sid Brews, all the way from Johannesburg, S. A., has received serious consideration as a championship prospect.

Champ Is Confident "I'm fully aware the odds are heavily against me," smiled Dutra, "but a fellow can't be hated for taking heart in the fact that Lawson Little became the British amateur two straight years. So you see I'm setting out on the hunch that this is the year for champions to repeat."

Little is still in England and is not competing in the open. Yesterday's steady downpour interfered with final rehearsal rounds but was welcomed by the contestants in the sense that it might have a tendency to slow up the greens and make run-up approaches reasonably safe from skidding off the carpet as well as making bids to hole out from distances greater than eight feet have been so fast as to make a putt from that distance almost unnegotiable.

Lettermen in swimming and wrestling have been announced at Santa Ana High school, with awards to be presented the following:

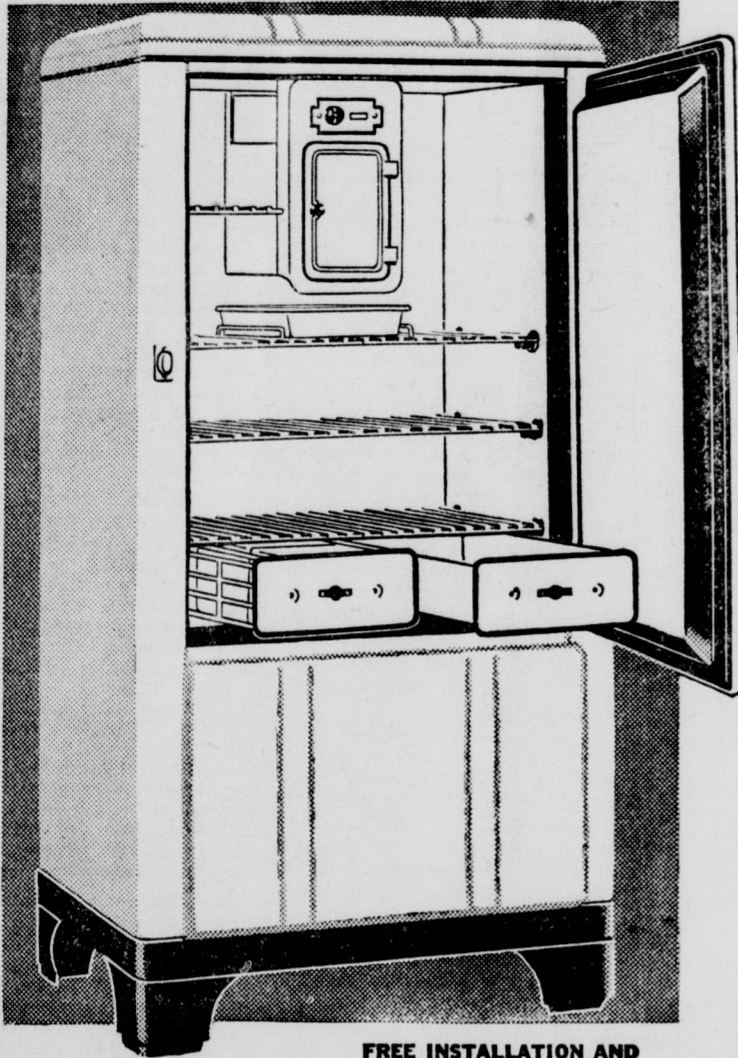

Swimming—Captain Charles Maxwell, 50 and 100-yard free styles; Mac Beal, diving; Gordon Kilburn, medley; Melvin Mill, 220-yard free style; Robert Prescott, breast stroke; Beveridge Nelson, back stroke; Alfred Eastman, back stroke, 220 and 400-yard free styles; Larry Wickes, diving and 50-yard free style; Kenneth Orcutt, diving and 50-yard free style; Kenneth Oliphant, back and breast strokes, and 50-yard free style. Other members of the team were A. House, Herman Quick, Frank Was, Yoshio Osari and Louis McCowen.

Wrestling—Captain Dick Mather and George Ogata, 105 pounds; Don Baker, 125; Gordon Clark, 125; Jim Elliott, 125; Dan Arbio, Jesse Castro and Dave Loper, 145; Ray Foster, Leo Gibbons and Fred Tittensor, heavyweights.

William J. Tway, head of the SARA works division, was introduced, and will speak at a future meeting.

The club passed a resolution commending T. E. Williams, director of the Junior College Fine Arts press, for the work he has done in book publishing, which has received praise throughout the country.

Edward Lentz, program chairman, presented Tommy Moran and Jim Carlson, who entertained with banjo and guitar music.

MARRIAGE LOOKS GOOD! MISS LOVE, MR. SWEET SIGN UP

If names mean anything, there is one marriage, an intention of which has been filed in the Orange county license bureau, that will be a success. The bride is a Love and the groom a Sweet.

Late yesterday Jay Sweet, 61, and Helen A. Love, 56, both of San Diego, filed their notice of intention to wed. As the couple left the bureau clerks were pondering the old question, "What's in a name?"

MRS. JOHNSON COMPILE SARA EXPENDITURES

Asserting that she was the legal wife and is now the widow of H. Edgar Johnson, former Fullerton publisher, Mrs. Jessie Elvira Johnson is gambling her $25,000 home in Beverly Hills against a widow's share of the large estate of the former publisher. She has on file in superior court a contest of the will in which the legality of her marriage to Johnson was denied, as was the paternity of her daughter.

In the last will of the publisher, executed a few days before his death, the asserted Mrs. Johnson, who was designated in that document simply as Jessie Smith Engstrom, was bequeathed the home in Beverly Hills. The document also declared that anyone receiving a bequest under the will should lose his share of the estate in the event he attempted to contest the will.

Mrs. Johnson alleges that at the time the will was executed the late publisher was not mentally competent to make a will; that he did not sign it before two witnesses, and that if he did sign it he did so without knowing its contents.

OFFICERS HEAR DR. EMMERSON

Local government is the most important element in government, and people today are paying greater attention to affairs closest to their homes than they have ever done in the past, according to a statement made last night by Dr. F. W. Emmerson of Los Angeles in his address before members of the Orange County Peace Officers association, in monthly session in San Clemente.

Dr. Emmerson, who is connected with the department of public relations of the Los Angeles sheriff's office, went on to say that people today expect their law enforcement agencies to be intelligent and progressive. Peace officers should realize that conditions are constantly changing, he said, and should change their methods accordingly.

At the close of the meeting members were given a demonstration in modern protection equipment by George F. Cake, west coast representative of Federal Laboratories, Incorporated. A feature of the demonstration was the use of tear gas bombs and the Thompson sub-machine gun.

Fashions Interest Guests at American Legion Auxiliary Luncheon

Capes Lead In Style Parade

Award Table Prizes To 42 Winners of Games

To be smart it had a cape. Some were flared, others tailored, some shirred, others pleated, but sport, afternoon, and evening frocks that won approval of near 200 women who attended the American Legion auxiliary luncheon and fashion show in Veterans hall yesterday were chic because of capes.

There were white dresses with printed capes and trims. A smart gray wool crepe with a tailored, short-sleeved dress was set off with a full cape of the same material. One gay pink took style from its trim and cape of navy blue.

Several bizarre patterns made their bow in a jagged blue and white striped sport dress and a navy blue with a wide splash of red, white and blue, the entire center length of the frock.

French Blue Good
French blue and pink combined to give a mid-summer smartness, and several bright-patterned prints were styled effectively. The dresses were modeled through courtesy of the Polyanne Apparel shop.

At the bridge tables, two guests caught fashion's favor. A trim blue and green check became a frilly thing with its wide shirred cuffs and collar of blue taffeta. A pendant gold clasp added dazzle. Blue accessories completed the ensemble. Across the aisle a rough linen of pink with brown accessories kept its fresh appeal throughout the afternoon.

Mrs. Sullivan Smart-Looking
In a smart pink ensemble, edged with magenta embroidery and pattern, Mrs. George Sullivan, chairman of the day, introduced the mannequins.

Models were the Misses Virginia Berry, Ann Tarver, and Alice Majors, and Misses Fred Halber, Andrew Lykke, and W. H. McConnell. Spencer foundation garments were demonstrated by Mrs. C. Judson Chapman.

Award Table Prizes
Guest towels in pastel shades were awarded as table prizes to the following winners: Misses H. W. Leecing, W. F. Curmatt, L. R. Kasper, Una L. Early, L. A. Ford, H. S. MEET THE WIFE

MRS. PAUL MUNI

Small, dark, pleasant... quiet and retiring by nature... Bella Finkel of the New York stage has given way entirely to Mrs. Paul Muni. All her acting now is as confidante, adviser, business manager and bookkeeper for the home of her screen-famous husband. It was Mrs. Muni who made the deal that brought her husband to Hollywood to make "Scarface" after his first unhappy experience in pictures.

Paul left the matter in her hands. He turns to her for advice about make-up, characterization, fine shading in his portrayals. They live on a walnut ranch in the "valley" near Hollywood. Mrs. Muni found it, Paul bought it. Mrs. Muni is high-strung. Mrs. Muni, calm and restful, his perfect companion. She is ready to pack up and travel with him on an hour's notice. But she lets him do the planning and almost all the talking.

CHARIVARI GIVEN IN HONOR OF G. R. GROUTS

Members and friends of the United Brethren church joined in an old-fashioned charivari Tuesday night honoring two of its members, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Grout, who were married in Yuma, Ariz., a week before.

The group started from the church early in the evening and went to the ranch home of Mr. Grout, north of Orange. The pastor and his wife went to the home earlier in the evening under guise of a friendly call, but purposely to keep the honorees at home. Old-time noise-makers were much in evidence, with the addition of numerous auto-horns. After the greetings were over Mr. and Mrs. Grout were invited back to the church, where another surprise was in waiting for them.

There was a short program including a mock wedding ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Grout were the bride and groom and were fittingly adorned with a long trailing lace-curtain veil caught with shasta daisies, a shower bouquet of pink geraniums for the bride and a swallow-tail coat for the bridegroom. Attendants were the maid of honor, Mrs. Arthur Williams; bridesmaid, Mrs. J. H. Noble; best man, William Curmatt; flower girl, Mrs. H. A. Colby; ring bearer, Clarence Hecox, and a

Installation Features Meeting

Annual installation of officers featured the annual picnic meeting with which Santa Ana Woman's club brought to a climax its present year, in the Isaac Walton cabin, Hillcrest park, Fullerton, Tuesday.

Installed were Misses E. M. Waycott, president; F. A. Martin, vice president; G. N. Coon, treasurer; William Whitehead and J. D. Watkins, recording and corresponding secretaries; C. F. Crose, parliamentarian; R. A. McMahon, historian; Elizabeth Read, press chairman; and R. G. Carman, federation secretary.

Reports Given
Annual reports were given before the picnic luncheon hour. Misses McMahon, H. D. McIlvaine, William Kuhn, Nannie Myers, F. A. Martin, Read, R. W. Cole and Watkins planned the menu, and Mrs. Earl Ladd arranged decorations.

Mrs. R. G. Carman, retiring club president, introduced to her fellow clubwomen Mrs. Benjamin F. Warner of Ontario, retiring president of southern district, California Federation of Women's clubs, and installing officer for the day. Mrs. Warner and Mrs. Waycott are friends of long standing.

The installation was symbolically conducted along the lines of flowers in a garden. Mrs. William M. Wells and Mrs. E. D. Froeschle prepared corsages which were given to the officers. Mrs. Carman presented a geranium and a vase of perfume to her successor, who this year has served the club as vice president. She gave her retiring officers similar gifts.

As Mrs. Carman gave the gavel to Mrs. Waycott, the latter gave her a tiny gold gavel from the executive board, and Mrs. R. W. Cole presented the past president's pin. Mrs. Malcolm Macurda gave Mrs. Waycott flowers, as did also the club.

Miss Ruth Coe, assisted at the piano by Mrs. Blanche Hackleton, sang, and Mrs. R. P. Arnold read. Mrs. Daisy Colbeck sang "The End of a Perfect Day."

The setting aside of $50 as the beginning of a clubhouse fund was a feature of the business session.

The ring was a large brass curtain ring carried on a pillow and the flowers dropped from a large basket were geranium petals. The preacher wore a long coat with an oil-cloth sunflower, and read the ceremony from a large catalog.

The wedding party came into the room from separate doors to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march played by Miss Charlotte Colby, and met at an improvised altar under a fern and rose-decked arch. Miss Colby played the recessional march at the close of the ceremony, and the couple were properly "riced" before they took their seats.

Rev. T. W. Ringland, pastor of the church, presented the honor guests with an electric clock, gift of the friends present.

During the social hour that followed home-made cake and punch were served by the Misses Naomi Dennie, Charlotte Colby and Ellen Tillotson.

The committee in charge of the plans and decorations included Mrs. William Hart, Mrs. P. Gam-mell and Mrs. Arthur Williams.

NORTHERN LEADER

MRS. W. D. JAMES

Federation Center To Go North

With the moving of the state office, California Federation of Women's clubs, to Hanford, home city of the new state president, Mrs. W. D. James, scheduled for June 15, interest in the Southland in federation activities is taking a last-minute increase.

Announcement of state chairmanships is scheduled for June 27-28, the annual state summer conference at Santa Barbara, and the possibility of several chairmanships for this district is noteworthy.

The California Federation News editorship and business management, according to recent decision of the state board of trustees, will remain in southern district in the competent hands of Mrs. Frank Rosapaw, who has served this year as magazine business manager and state press chairman.

Now in Detroit

After the state convocation, the southern district annual summer conference will be held July 10-11 at Hotel Del Mar, Del Mar.

Mrs. James left California June 1 and is now in Detroit, where yesterday the triennial general federation convention opened. Mrs. James will probably not return home before June 20.

In the meantime, Miss Josephine G. Seaman of La Jolla, who is concluding two years of splendid leadership as state president, is completing her plans to leave at 1 p. m., Saturday, from Wilmington for England to spend three months visiting relatives.

Miss Seaman has been nominated as first vice president of the Western Federation of Women's clubs, and her fellow clubwomen are eagerly awaiting further news concerning this nomination.

Honored at Luncheon

Mrs. George Purnell, state office secretary, who is soon to leave Fullerton, was complimented with a luncheon at which Mrs. Rosapaw, Mrs. Albert Launer of Fullerton, California Federation News editor, and Mrs. E. E. Smith of Anaheim, state chairman of literature, shared hostess honors recently in the E. E. Smith home.

Guests included Mrs. John Stewart of Hemet and Mrs. Benjamin F. Warner of Ontario, incoming and retiring southern district presidents; Mrs. George H. Bunnell of Redlands, retiring state chairman of international interests and incoming state treasurer; Mrs. H. R. Stanford of Ontario, state chairman of gardens, and Mrs. Ada DeNyse and Mrs. Agnes L. McEuen of Riverside, state chairman and state chairman of legislation.

WILLARD P. T. A. HONORS 7TH GRADE MOTHERS

Honoring mothers who will have students in the Willard Junior High school seventh grade next year, the Willard Parent-Teacher association held the last meeting of the year yesterday afternoon in the school library.

A summary of the year's work was given by Mrs. E. H. Elsner, retiring president, and concluding reports were given by the various committee chairmen. Highlights of the state convention were reviewed by Mrs. Elsner and Mrs. Hugh Hougham, incoming president.

Presentation of corsages to old and new officers was made by Mrs. Elsner. Mrs. Hougham formally received the retiring president's personal gavel on behalf of the association.

"Mother Said No," was read by Mrs. David Carmichael, program chairman. Selections were given by the girls' glee club, and Robert Haven, 13-year-old violinist, played "Scene De Ballo" by De Berriot. Miss Leota Ingie of Orange accompanied.

Complimenting each other at a lace-covered tea table, centered with spring flowers, Mrs. Hougham and Mrs. George Calhoun poured. Beach umbrellas had been set out in the patio where the refreshments were served. Assisting the hostesses were Mrs. R. E. Bacon and Mrs. F. H. Thompson.

Local Order Entertains Chief

Eighty members of the Social Order of Beauceant sat down to luncheon tables simulating the passion cross yesterday noon in the Masonic temple, when Mrs. C. A. D. Beer, supreme worthy president, paid her official inspection.

Attending Mrs. Beer were Mrs. J. Joseph Smith, supreme first vice president, of Pasadena; Mrs. Paul F. Pierce, supreme mistress of wardrobe, of Long Beach, and Mrs. A. R. Muller, member of the supreme court of appeal and grievances, of Santa Ana.

Past presidents of many neighboring chapters attended and the following active presidents were present: Mrs. William F. Minter of Long Beach; Mrs. C. G. Perry of Hollywood; Mrs. Raymond Hayn of Los Angeles; Mrs. Raymond H. Hill of Pasadena, and Mrs. Albert E. Hanson of Glendale.

Heading the group of Knight Templars who attended was R. W. McKnight, commander of the Santa Ana order.

Red geraniums were used to form the cross and red candles were set in silver candelabra. Favors took the shape of Maltese crosses.

Mrs. Benjamin Livesey sang during the luncheon, accompanied by Miss Mayne Havens.

Exemplification of the degree won the approval of the national inspector, Mrs. W. H. Thomas said this morning. Mrs. Beers will visit the Hollywood order today.

Hostesses were Misses Walter Wright, James Vincent, E. R. Roehm, H. H. Wassum, and E. L. Topie. Mrs. J. W. Hancock presided.

SPURGEON SOCIETY HAS MONTHLY MISSIONARY MEET

Thirty-five members of the Spurgeon Methodist Memorial Missionary society assembled yesterday at the church for their monthly all-day meeting.

Relating his experiences at a Methodist school in Louisiana, the Rev. Joseph B. Martin, affiliated with the Los Angeles Oriental schools, talked on "Is It Worthwhile?"

The Rev. C. M. Aker led the morning Bible lesson, and Mrs. Ruth Preble directed the prayer group. A questionnaire on "The World Outlook," missionary magazine, was led by Mrs. Henry Donan.

Mrs. A. A. Jones was in charge of devotionals. Reviewing careers of the pioneers of the missionary work, Mrs. C. P. Solomon and Mrs. J. O. Heath read a leaflet on "Forgotten Women."

Miss Hester Covington, president, officiated at the business meeting.

Luncheon at noon was served by Golden Rule Circle under Mrs. Max Temple, chairman.

Household Arts

PATTERN 5368

Guest towels may be individually ever so lovely but, if they don't match, their effect is often spoiled. Here is your opportunity to make an entire set of four. The quaint motifs represent the different seasons and all are done in cross stitch with just a touch of lazy daisy and French knots to add variety and color. You can also use these motifs on pillow cases, tea cloths and scarfs.

In pattern 5368 you will find a transfer pattern of four motifs averaging 5 1/2 x 10 1/2 inches; material requirements; color suggestions; illustrations of all stitches needed.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Santa Ana Journal Household Arts Dept., 117 East Fifth street.

SIX-LAYER CAKE PRESENTED TO BOY BY MOTHER

For once in his life, Wayne Carothers had enough chocolate cake!

The occasion was his 10th birthday party, a picnic supper given by his mother, Mrs. Oscar A. Carothers, 934 Kilson drive, Tuesday afternoon in Anaheim park—when Mrs. Carothers presented her son with a six-layer chocolate cake thickly iced with chocolate frosting. The cake was his special birthday request.

After dinner the boys played games. Wayne's many birthday gifts included one sent from San Bernardino by his chum, Neil Reenders, who was unable to be present, since the party was on a school evening.

Guests included Jack Givens, Homer Chaney, Jerry and Phillip McCain and Harry Bruff. Wayne's little sister, Barbara "Bobbie" Ann, was a special guest.

HERMAN SCHACHT SURPRISED WITH PARTY

A group of friends of Herman Schacht met at the B. E. Dawson residence, 521 South Birch street, which is also Mr. Schacht's home, to honor him with a surprise birthday party Tuesday evening. Bridge was played. Judd Sutherland

Chapel To Be Scene of Wedding

Saturday afternoon, June 15, at 4 o'clock in the picturesque Voorhees chapel at San Dimas, a quiet ceremony will unite in marriage Miss Thelma Gerrard, daughter of Hugh A. Gerrard of 2009 Victoria drive, and Winthrop Gordon of Los Angeles, son of the Rev. George A. Gordon and Mrs. Gordon of Woodridge, Conn.

The bridegroom's parents are to arrive by boat the day preceding the wedding, and his father, who is a Congregational minister, will read the marriage ceremony. A small group of relatives and friends will be present.

Miss Gerrard, who is a member of the Wilson grammar school faculty, has been complimented with several pretty pre-wedding parties. Her fiancé is an attorney in Los Angeles. After their wedding they plan to make their home in Eagle Rock.

Wednesday Club Has Party

Members of the Wednesday club had a pleasant meeting yesterday in the A. G. Flagg home, 1320 North Broadway, with Mrs. Flagg and Mrs. Edward Farnsworth sharing the hostess honors.

A low crystal bowl of pink roses and blue delphinium centered the long luncheon table. Quantities of flowers sent from the gardens of Mrs. A. J. Cruikshank and Mrs. George Gunther were used about the rooms of the home.

Table prizes were given in the afternoon's contract play. Mrs. Cruikshank substituted for Mrs. Parke Roper, Mrs. R. G. Tut-hill for Mrs. James Harding, and Mrs. Marguerite Borgmeyer for Mrs. Charles Kelly.

Others present were Mrs. I. F. Landis, Mrs. C. V. Davis, Mrs. George Briggs, Mrs. Roy Hall, Mrs. Earl S. Morrow, Mrs. Philip Hatzfeld and Mrs. J. I. Clark.

Four Stars In New Film

Four outstanding stars—Gary Cooper, Walter Huston, Richard Arlen and Mary Brian—are featured in "The Virginian," which opens a three-day engagement at the Broadway theater today.

A picture of the wild west of the 1890's, "The Virginian" stars Cooper in the title role. The romance between Cooper and Miss Brian, acting a school teacher, is the principal story of the film.

By ROB EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY:
FRAN CAREY, stenographer, found an old-fashioned locket and from that unexciting circumstance has come love and disillusionment, exciting adventure and tragedy, rapture and bitter shame.

Though Fran did not know it, HARRIET RALEIGH, eccentric, wealthy old woman, had "lost" an old-fashioned locket where Fran found hers—and had provided in her will that whoever found the "lost" locket should inherit $15 million dollars at her death.

Fran's advertisement of the locket brings her to the attention of CHRISTOPHER ABBOTT, Miss Raleigh's lawyer, who falls in love with her though Fran doesn't suspect it. It also brings her to the attention of ELLEN SPENCER, Miss Raleigh's housekeeper, Ellen's brother, JAY, and WARD QUENTIN. These three know of Miss Raleigh's will. They want the six million dollars. Their plan to get it involves Ward's marrying Fran and then, when she had acquired the fortune, disposing of her in a fatal accident.

Ward, an accomplished liar and an accomplished lover, opens an office near Fran's. He meets her. He wins her love. Fran falls hopelessly in love, though Abbott has warned her against new acquaintances. Her wedding date is set despite Fran's roommate, NINA MARKHAM, who dislikes Ward, and LAEL HUBBELL, his mistress, who poses as his secretary in his office.

Miss Raleigh dies two days before the wedding. Abbott calls for Fran's million dollars at her death. Fran, virtually at the altar, when the Ward leaves town with Lael, leaving Fran virtually at the altar. When the one that she will not inherit the six million dollars. Fran tells Ward and Lael that Abbott had tricked them all and that Fran's is really the Raleigh locket. But when he tries to re-establish himself with Fran she refuses to see him. No excuse he can make to her can erase from her mind the conviction that he had jilted her when he discovered her locket would not bring him a fortune.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

THE ORANGE FESTIVAL

AN INTERESTING special edition, The Daily News-Tribune, of Fullerton, invites Orange county to attend the second annual Valencia Orange Festival, which begins tonight and ends Saturday. The News-Tribune has shown the same enterprise that prompted the festival, and the business men of the city have manifested their appreciation by liberally patronizing the columns of the paper.

Fullerton always was a good neighbor and a generous host. We are certain its guests tonight and during the two days following will include hosts of Santa Ana residents as well as others from all districts of Orange county. Get-together festivals of this character are what make life worth living. Our distances are so comparatively short, and our roads so numerous and so good, that frequent visits to our neighbors should be a pleasant habit.

A SYMBOL OF THE PAST

MANY books and publications reach the desk of an editor. Few that have come to the notice of the editor of The Journal have impressed him more than Del An, the annual of the Santa Ana Junior college just off the press. It is Volume XV and is published by the Associated Students under the very capable direction of John E. Pegues and Charles S. Downie, co-editors and David Sheppard, business manager and layout editor. It is from the Santa Ana Junior college fine arts press and when big and well-equipped printing houses do a better job they will have reason to shout about it.

Commemorating the spirit of the pioneers of Orange county, the book's foreword pays this graceful tribute: "Symbolizing a connecting link with the heritage of the Don and the memory of the pioneering Californians—the Franciscan Fathers, and particularly Fray Junipero Serra—Santa Ana Junior college graphically presents a chronicle of this year of her pioneering on a new campus. The cordial association of the college with the mission of San Juan Capistrano, Fray Serra's little jewel, appropriately suggested the theme for this Del An. The futility of any translation into things material of the memory that is the greatest treasure of Californians is admitted. But the thought is perennially apparent that out of our effort may be bred a new respect for these men of God and, consequently, a nobler conception of ourselves and our interests."

THE CRIME OF KIDNAPING

KIDNAPING of helpless children is a fiendish thing. Perpetrators of such atrocious acts of savagery must be brought to suffer all the rigors of outraged justice. There must be no bargaining with such criminals. No maudlin sympathy must pervert an avenging retribution. The Weyerhaeuser case again stirs the public conscience. Once more an important family delayed the machinery of the law. For more than a week the agents of justice chafed for action, while the distracted parents carried on negotiations with the kidnapers of their boy. Again this heinous crime has scored a victory, at least for the moment, bearing off in gloating triumph $200,000. The purpose behind the kidnaping is to get the ransom money. If no money were forthcoming on insolent demand kidnaping would disappear. Plain, common sense says that no money should be paid. Sternly, the distraught parties must be forbidden, by law, to have any dealings with the criminals. A snatching case is a crime against society and passes at once beyond control of the victims. At the first cry of alarm the whole machinery of the law must swing into action. The apparent ease with which this crime was committed can not fail to stir the denizens of the underworld.

Kidnaping is comparatively simple and the stakes are high. It is another manifestation of the beastiality of the gross materialism which afflicts us. "Where the carion is there will the vultures be gathered together."

THOSE BORING NUDISTS

THIS is going to be a tough summer for nudists. Everybody is used to them by now and they can't do a thing about it.

It's all sort of tragic in a way. For years the girls have made life interesting in summertime because everybody has an idea how much they would take off when they went beaching, and so everybody stuck around to see if his judgment was right. Usually it turned out too conservative.

But no beach girl ever made the mistake that the nudists did of taking off everything. She realized, dimly, that when you get to the end of the road there is no place else to go. So interest stayed at fever heat.

The nudists never thought of this angle apparently. They took everything off. People were interested at first. But then they discovered what doctors had known for years—that the human body is nothing to write home about.

So interest in nudism simply died.

TO SQUELCH HITCH-HIKING

THE Pennsylvania state highway patrol has declared war on the hitch-hiker. Captain Wilson C. Price announces at Harrisburg that anyone caught thumbing a ride in Pennsylvania hereafter will be jailed or fined, and he adds:

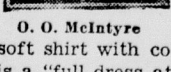

"A hitch-hiker and a panhandler are the same, except that the panhandler whines for a dime and the hitch-hiker wants a ride that is often worth a $10 bill."

This stand may seem a little harsh, but there are plenty of motorists who will applaud it. For, when all is said and done, the average hitch-hiker has a colossal nerve.

As Captain Wilson remarks, he is a panhandler on a big scale. It is hard to feel very indignant over a plan to squelch him.

Mayor Fiorella La Guardia continues to be the unshowiest mayor since Gaynor. The role of a civic ringmaster cracking the whip in the spotlight, blowing kisses and taking bows, seems to have no appeal. Sometimes when he goes to the theater he dismisses his car at the corner.

O. O. McIntyre is a soft shirt with collar attached. He is a "full dress atheist" and a silk hat is anathema. A pudgy gentleman, he has difficulty in fitting himself to a chair and is in constant squirm when seated, which gives the suggestion of nervousness.

The Mayor's lightning temper is magnificent to behold. In a fiercely dark growler, he storms about in exquisite rage, flailing his arms and stamping his feet. Just as quickly a smile illumines his countenance and the tantrum vanishes. He likes, too, to indulge a self martyrdom pout now and then.

Nobody can accuse him of laziness. No one in his cabinet works so hard. Almost his sole relaxation is music—especially the opera and symphony. A thoroughgoing husband, he goes few places without his wife. When he retires from politics, he will spend declining years in Prescott, Ariz., his birthplace.

Max Gordon, with his sudden and astonishing success, has become a will o' the wisp of the theater. He assembles his production, hires a capable director and is off. He moves from Hollywood to London and Paris with only brief stops in New York. Once his world was Broadway between The Circle and 42nd street, picking up small time acts along the curbs. He could always be found. Today the only person who knows his whereabouts is his aged mother, to whom he is devoted. A perpetual hypochondriac, he carries medicines in each pocket.

The goofy wrestlers, those befuddled Goliaths who seem to have all sanity knocked out, are about the most poorly paid of public performers. Some are willing to take an evening's slugging for $20. A $50 bill is big dough. Not even physicians can explain their ability to take the punishment that would kill an ordinary person. They are just physical monstrosities, disobeying all the rules of training, diet and, of course, clean wrestling. I talked to one after a severe manhandling at a Harlem auditorium not long ago. He had been slammed on his head, kicked repeatedly in the face, received terrific head butts in the chest and stomach and was thrown out of the ring several times. He was a Lithuanian who could not read or write and was stuffing himself with gum drops and looking at the comics. It was rather awful.

New York recently entertained for a day the elderly but extremely agile congresswoman, Florence Kahn, of California. It was her first visit in seven years, having been here last for the shuttering of the old Waldorf. She saw the Empire spire where the Waldorf stood and the new Radio City. Also the Fifth avenue she knew so well, without a single block recognizable. All in seven years.

Thingumbobs: Will Rogers' biggest broadcast hits were when he went to the microphone without a single advance idea. Major Bowes is now the most highly paid radio entertainer. Kathleen Cornell went shopping for a puppy in London and bought six. An Andrew Carnegie mansion caretaker is among the finest Shakespeare students in America. Adolphe Menjou won't give up horizontally striped stiff bosomed shirts. Rupert Hughes is always sought as the guest of honor at every convention for the deaf.

Many New York hotels that permit dogs will not permit parrots. Mae West gives a diamond ring to everybody on the set after a picture is finished. A friend in South Carolina sends some philosophy cavedropped from a group of his colored servants. They were discussing a sick white neighbor on an adjoining plantation. Said one: "I don't think he's doing so brief but I don't wonder. His nurse ain't got a speck of cheer up and sorter keeps him meekified. What a man needs in the miseries is a spunkin' up!"

The Merry-Go-Round

Reed told the president, in effect, that the supreme court had the New Deal licked; that without an amendment to the constitution they saw no effective way out of the stalemate.

TWO SCHOOLS OF THOUGHT

BUT ROOSEVELT refused to take this defeatist view of the situation. Dropping everything else, he set about finding a solution.

From early morning until late at night, by long-distance telephone, telegraph and personal interviews, he talked with politicians, labor leaders, editors, legal experts and businessmen, seeking suggestions and ideas. Within 24 hours he talked to more than 60 people.

Among administration leaders two schools of thought developed as to the course that should be pursued. A group of conservative southern chiefs on capitol hill—who had never been sympathetic toward the NRA—convinced the president to sit tight and do nothing.

They argued that it would be good politics to let the NRA go by the boards temporarily, meanwhile gauge the reaction of the country. If popular demand developed for a new NRA, Roosevelt could assume the role of leader and propose another NRA plan to congress.

Taking advantage of the straight-jacket nature of the supreme court's decision, these congressional leaders also advised that the controversial features of the banking, holding corporation and social security measures be abandoned. They also wanted to junk the Wagner Labor Disputes Bill plus the TVA and AAA amendments, thus making possible a quick wind-up of congress.

LIBERAL FIGHTERS

Strongly opposing this advice was a group headed by General Hugh Johnson and Felix Frankfurter. They told the president that the wise and constructive thing to do was not yield an inch but take the offensive and fight all the way down the line.

This militant element warned against abandoning the NRA. They cited the fact that the labor department already was overwhelmed with complaints of wage reductions and hour increases. Unless the administration acted with vigor, they held, more and more employers would make similar cuts—with the certain result of widespread labor disturbances. At present, the militants argued, the onus of killing the NRA is on the supreme court. But if a month or two hence nothing has been done to counter the blow, they argued that public resentment would be against the administration.

To this school of thought the president gave complete agreement. After listening to Johnson expound these views, he remarked: "Hugh, it's good to find one of my advisers who still has fight in him."

It was Felix Frankfurter, Harvard law expert on the history of the supreme court, who explained to Roosevelt the long series of opinions which it had given in the past to block child labor abolition, minimum wage and various reforms.

This was the background to the president's militant action.

INFANT CARE

THE BILL introduced by Connecticut's Representative William Higgins to prohibit the dissemination of birth control information through the mails has added to the mail problem of already overburdened members of congress.

Foes of the bill are deluging the legislators with demands that they oppose it. Because most of these letters come from individuals who take a keen interest in public affairs, most congressmen and senators are careful to answer them.

But not Jim Quinn, Pennsylvania Democrat, a strong supporter of the bill.

He merely sends the writer a copy of the children's bureau pamphlet entitled "Infant Care."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

ALVIN OWSLEY, newly appointed American Minister to the Irish Free State, married into the Mason jar family. His wife is the daughter of Frank C. Ball, famous Indiana fruit jar king. One-time president of the American Legion, Owsley has a magnificent home in Dallas, Texas, is a hand-shaker par excellence. The state department is becoming increasingly irked at the way President Trujillo is tyrannizing Santo Domingo. A situation similar to that in Cuba is brewing rapidly. Commissioner Jim Landis of the SEC is wearing a rueful face these days. He served for some time in the federal trade commission post once held by Commissioner Humphries. Now the supreme court has ruled that Humphries could not be ousted; so the question arises whether Landis will have to refund the salary he drew during this period. What makes the situation doubly irritating is the fact that Landis wrote the opinion for Roosevelt by which he ousted Humphries. Even Landis' old boss, Justice Brandeis, overruled him. THE FRIENDLY WORD

Editor The Journal: On Sunday morning, June 2, 1935, listening to the eulogy of one who had passed on; the speaker contributed a lovely memorial to his late friend. If we, and also the press, left unsaid many things.

Remembering only the friendly word, the deed, and kindly acts, this old world would be a better place to live in. Mr. Skirvin's beautiful thoughts concerning the soldier dead in The Journal of May 30, 1935 is appreciated, a contribution not to be forgotten.

What Other Editors Say

A NEW TAX SYSTEM

(Placencia Star-News)

The state of California sorely needs, and must have, a complete revision of its state tax system—or, more properly, the state's lack of a tax system. There is no state system of taxation. There is a conglomeration of tax laws which are not coordinated, which are wholly inconsistent and which are full of glaring inequities. The present legislature has dealt with a patch-work or crazy quilt of tax laws, numbering ten or twelve major items, which is little less than an atrocity. There should be a campaign of education, beginning immediately, in support of a simplified tax system for the state.

Here, then, the misfortune of the child promised to prove the salvation of the man.

All of it was done quietly, deftly and skillfully. Hundreds of dollars are enacted daily through-out the land.

Feeling Well Today

By Dr. Iago Galdston
MEDICAL DRAMA

In recent years we have witnessed both on the legitimate stage and in the movies a number of dramatic presentations which had the hospital and the surgical amphitheatre as their background.

Most of the plays drew their dramatic qualities from the contest of wills and from the passions which common mortals are subject.

The interne in the interest of the patient disobeys his medical or surgical chief, or the pretty and honest nurse wins the heart of the ambitious young medical man who is just about to sell his soul to a rich heiress.

Physicians, as a rule, describe these plays as human dramas presented against the background of medicine rather than truly medical dramas.

The truly medical drama has another quality. For example: In a small operating room in a great institute a few days ago there were to be seen two operating tables placed close together, and four surgeons silently busy.

Looking upward through the glass roof of the surgical amphitheatre one could see the watching faces of eager students and visiting medical men.

On one operating table, under complete anesthesia, was an infant of 12 months. It had a cancerous growth in each eye. On the other table was a young scientist, who some years before had had both eyes scarred through an accident. To save the life of the infant, its cancerous eyes had to be surgically treated, and advantage was taken of the available tissue to cut out a section of the cornea from the infant's removed eye and to transplant it into the scarred eye of the blind scientist.

Here, then, the misfortune of the child promised to prove the salvation of the man.

All of it was done quietly, deftly and skillfully. Hundreds of dollars are enacted daily through-out the land.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

With C. F. SKIRVIN

Early start and late finish. Rush order for the barber shop. Using the old bean to get there early and avoid the crowd. Whoever pushed that old stuff into the middle of the stream was a relative of Ananias. Another squirrel had beat me to it, so I wait. The same reason a man smokes a Havana cigar. This is the first time we ever knew there was nicotine in a baby's thumb.

Bunch of school children filing into the postoffice. Maybe they are taking in the measles, or a case of curiosity. It isn't much trouble for the average school child to possess both. Last I saw of them was following a good looking teacher, and there was a great temptation to join. I had just been shaved and had a hair cut.

Charley Van Wyk discusses a bean growing and its interferences. I tried to worm some information out of him but he said it wasn't necessary. He gave me some tips on chemicals, pests, deficits, and other impediments encountered through life and in agriculture and horticulture pursuits, until I became uncomfortable and offered to buy him a cup of coffee. He saw the line on our editorial masthead and also refused to accept gratuities.

Invitation to lunch arrived about five minutes too late. I could have salvaged 35c if my friend had appeared earlier. Ordered fried chicken with the gravy omitted. I wanted to wrestle with the old boy and preferred a non-skill hold. John Lamb had more courage than I did. Being a politician he took more chances.

Dr. Patton phones the dentists are to trek to Irvine park for a steak bake. He invites me and then supplies the information that he is going to cook the steaks and so I refuse the invitation. That fellow would give me the toughest piece of steak he could get hold of and then laugh at me the next day.

About this time the fire department wants the streets so I get off. The way those trucks travel down Main has no indication that the driver is familiar with Sinclair Lewis' "Main Street." On Lewis' thoroughfare it was a leisurely attitude. But in Santa Ana the siren calls for the right of way, and it betides those who offer opposition.

Mixed in with a real estate transaction in an advisory capacity. In spite of my help the deal went through. Which recalls that ranches are being sold at better prices. When it comes to investment and safety nothing is more secure than Orange county property, and for fear that I might be accused of being employed by the Santa Ana Real Estate association further eulogies in this respect are omitted. But if you want to hear an oration on the value of Orange county land I can send you to the right parties.

If Willey Post continues to encounter unfavorable weather and mechanical trouble I am persuaded to ask my friend Frank Phillips to send me the money he is spending on Post, and let him stay in Los Angeles, with Winnie Mae.

Now comes the party of the first part who wants to tell me about the party of the second part and what happened at the bridge game. Why don't they finish those bridge games where they play 'em, instead of bringin' 'em home for the postmortem.

Next Sunday there will be a small dim spot on the calendar. Astronomers might mistake it for an atom, but to the initiated it's Father's day. Under the NRA fathers didn't amount to much, but maybe the supreme court decision will rehabilitate the old gentlemen.

Try as I may to prevent it this department is becoming involved in the vortex of swaps. One was offered to the official swapping column but stamped incompetent, and still crying for help it landed right at my front door. Anyway nothing can be done about it until 1936—maybe not then. The applicant would like to swap "one faded blue eagle for a good substantial republican paycheck." To prevent a recurrence of the incident it may be well to state that this department is non-political.
